ABOUT ME

Master's graduate in Computer Science at the University of Milan, with Erasmus stay at the University of Copenhagen and thesis at Loughborough University, I love learning by expanding my knowledge base and deepening what I already know. As a computer science enthusiast, I enjoy exploring both the theoretical aspects of my studies and the hardware and software tools I use daily. I primarily work on GNU/Linux systems, among which the main ones run Arch.

PROJECTS

Also see website.

SimpoLab

📅 2020 – Ongoing

SimpoLab is a group of university students with the goal of both creating useful projects and implementing meaningful ideas. On our server we host services like

- a Git server based on Gitea
- a mail server based on Postfix and Dovecot
- web servers based on Nginx
- a DNS server based on BIND
- databases

and much more.

University projects

📅 2019 – Ongoing

Development of various projects, most of which stored in a GitHub organization, related to university courses. For example

- recomyelp, a simple recommendation system for the Yelp dataset running on Google Colab
 - SVeSE, a simple Electronic Voting and Counting System
 - debian-mips, a project about emulating Debian on the MIPS architecture in collaboration with professor Nicola Basilico (University of Milan)

Workshop aimed at introducing young researchers to the technical and practical aspects of a career in scientific research.
